Happy New Year WEAG families!

I love this time of year. Every January begins with so much hope and renewal and of course, a time for me to finally lose those extra holiday pounds that were so much fun to gain. Maybe I love setting goals every year because I have experienced so much of God's grace in my life, no matter how much I messed up the previous year. God is the King of do-overs. His grace is always sufficient in my life, so 2011 will be no exception to that wonderful truth.

I'd like to reinforce one of our main ministry goals in 2011; which is to help establish and reinforce the foundation of marriage for all WEAG couples. Here are some ways we hope to accomplish that this year:

1. Couples' class each semester on Sunday mornings, facilitated by a team of mature married WEAGers. This class focuses on building great relationships with other couples while discussing every day marriage issues.
2. Marriage Conference - Gary Chapman, author of over 20 marriage and family books, including The Five Love Languages, will be coming to WEAG Aug. 19-20th to speak at our marriage conference.
3. Marriage Retreat - Sept. 30th - Oct. 2nd (first weekend of Oct) - John and Helen Hershman and David and Donna Mercer will be the speakers at our retreat in Williamsburg, VA. No matter how long you've been married, this will be a great time to connect with other married couples at WEAG, and reconnect with your spouse for a weekend getaway.
4. Marriage Mentors - We will be providing a training program for those couples interested in guiding other couples into a Godly marriage. We hope to kick off these marriage mentorships in 2012.

We also want to revisit our continued initiative of strengthening parents in 2011 with the use of Parent's Cafe. I hope you'll join us beginning in February as we study the book, Sacred Parenting, by Gary Thomas. We will enjoy six sessions together, focusing on building relationships with other parents while having a fun time discussing this great book. Please mark these dates on your calendar and join us for Parent's Cafe on Wednesday nights this spring.

I look forward to growing in Christ together as families in 2011.
God Bless and Happy New Year!
